

RECONNECTING THE COMMUNITY TO MUSIC & THROUGH MUSIC

UTS:CENTRE FOR RESEARCH AND EDUCATION IN THE ARTS (CREA)

In support of the national 'Music Play for Life' campaign CREA will be offering a series of community music therapy groups designed to help people reconnect to music and through music to each other.

As musical activity is a powerful builder of friendships, community bonds, and social capital, the aim of these groups is to encourage music making by people of all ages, all musical tastes, in community settings.

Dr Rosemary Faire RMT, an experienced community artist, expressive arts therapist and coordinator of the Music Therapy program at UTS, will facilitate the groups. They are open to Music Therapy students and members of the general public.

To book into one of the groups contact Rosemary.Faire@uts.edu.au
